This is my explanation of the approach.

- generate a list with the alphabet

- check if the letters of the input sentence are matching with the alphabet

- find a way to store the info of what letters have matched

- check if all letters have been matched

- print the letters that not matched